SFGATE

The Bay Area has never been more prosperous than in these robust economic times. Yet there are many among us who struggle just to pay the bills and get food on the table – like the four families we've highlighted in this report.

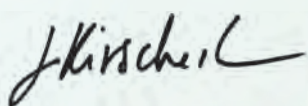

Fortunately, our region has a remarkable way of making life better for those in need. It's that generous spirit that has been the pillar of the Chronicle Season of Sharing Fund for the past 32 years, lifting up those who are working hard to make ends meet. Since 1986, we have raised nearly $130 million.

Your generosity and sense of compassion have never been more important to the place we call home. Your gift can provide an individual or family facing an unforeseen crisis – such as a job loss or serious illness – with the help they need. Your gift can even mean the difference between keeping a roof over their heads or homelessness.

With the support of more than 5,800 donors, our 2017-2018 campaign raised an astounding $9.6 million. Since the Evelyn and Walter Haas, Jr. Fund and the San Francisco Chronicle cover the administrative expenses of the Fund, every dollar donated goes directly to assist those in need.

Together, we are making things better. On behalf of the Season of Sharing Fund, we thank you for helping to improve thousands of lives.

With gratitude and appreciation,

Jennifer Kirschenbaum

Together, we helped...

the Hickman family move into a new home after their home and all their belongings were destroyed in the North Bay fires.

Together, we helped...

Melody Nichols and her son pay their rent when she was unable to work for three weeks due to an emergency surgery.

Together, we helped...

Ronald Calbert cover his rent while he was recuperating from an illness and paying for life-prolonging medicine.

Together, we helped...

Abdul Nasiri and his family stay in their home after an injury caused him to be out of work for several weeks.
